Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 09 November 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.
2. Applicant's arguments fail to comply with 37 CFR 1.111(b) because they amount to a general allegation that the claims define a patentable invention without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references.
3. Applicant argues that the prior art (Douceur et al.) does not teach pre-computing cryptographic data for communication. The Examiner disagrees and asserts that Doucer et al. discloses pre-computing cryptographic data by encrypting the sender's message using exclusive ORing (XORing) random bits of the encryption key with the message to produce cyphertext. (See Column 1, lines 28-46.
4. Therefore, the rejection of claims 1-6 is maintained in view of the reasons above and in view of the reasons below.

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The term "ready piece" is undefined. It is unclear to the Examiner, as to what is meant by a "ready piece". Please clarify.

Art Unit: 2137

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification lacks support for the term with regards to the means of a ready piece within a one-time pad.

Drawings

5. The subject matter of this application admits of illustration by a drawing to facilitate understanding of the invention. Applicant is required to furnish a drawing under 37 CFR 1.81(c). No new matter may be introduced in the required drawing. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

7. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Douceur et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6, 021, 203). As per claim 1, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where messages are passed between communicating parties encrypted with a one-time pad, for example by combining bits of a message and bits of the one-time pad using a logical XOR operation through one channel or a group of channels in Column 1, lines 23-65, the one-time pad is exchanged between communicating parties through another channel or a group of channels in an encrypted form with the use of private key encryption, for example DES in Column 3, lines 15-37. As per claim 2, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where the one-time pad is generated and passed between communicating parties concurrently with the rest of an application, which uses this secure communication in Column 3, lines 15-67, Column 4, lines 1-5.

As per claim 3, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where the one-time pad is entirely generating one communicating party and used by other communicating parties, and possibly by this one also in Column 3, lines 38-60.

As per claim 4, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where the one-time pad consists of two or more parts, each part is generated by a different communicating party and parts are exchanged between communicating parties in an encrypted form in Column 3, lines 61-67, Column 4, lines 1-13.

As per claim 5, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where a part of one-time pad is broken into a sequence of pieces and passed between communicating parties in pieces in Column 4, lines 14-34.

As per claim 6, Douceur et al. discloses a method of securing communication where the additional pieces of one-time pad are generated and passed between communicating parties as needed in Column 6, lines 1-39.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
